An intention is a desire to embody a way of being (a habit of mind and a quality of presence) in your daily actions and practices.

A phase is a recognizable stage in the development of a project's life.

Support extends beyond the life of the project, often dictating the ways in which you navigate the contradictions of living and working as an artist. Support is defined as the ways your needs are met in order to rest, dream, and work on any project.

Notice:

What might have to change individually, interpersonally, and institutionally to make this practice possible on a daily basis? Locate these generative contradictions.
